Wrinkle relaxing injections is a remarkably safe therapeutic agent for wrinkles.

What are wrinkle relaxing treatments?

Wrinkle relaxing injections is a remarkably safe therapeutic agent for wrinkles. Complications have been minor and only transient. Bruising may occur where injected and a brief pain or headache may follow. Bruising may be greater in patients who are taking aspirin or any blood thinning medicines. These products should be avoided if possible prior to the injection. Ice helps to prevent bruising. Muscle weakness is first noted at 24-48 hours; it is not immediate.

How long does wrinkle relaxing injections last?

Successful therapy is signaled by muscle weakness that begins at 24 to 48 hours after injection with a peaking weakness at 7-14 days. Paralysis after the initial injection lasts between 4 and 7 months for most patients.
